

Making Sense of Journey North Maps

Ask yourself these questions as you observe and compare each new Journey North map. Keep this list — and your responses — in your Journey North journal.

- What do I notice? What patterns do I see on the map?
- What statement would I use to describe what's happening?
- What's my explanation/theory about the reasons for this pattern?
- How does this new map match with my earlier predictions?
- When I compare the current map to the previous map . . . What changes do I notice? How would I explain those?
- How do I predict the map will change by next week (or month)?
- How did the "pace" of spring change from one week to the next? What factors might have influenced this?
- What questions do I still have?
